

SELF-GUIDED CAMPUS TOUR

Welcome to Emory!

During your self-guided tour of the Atlanta campus, you'll visit the landmarks that distinguish Emory's place among the nation's leading universities.

Situated in Atlanta's historic Druid Hills neighborhood, the campus spans 700 acres and is considered a mid-sized university. The campus boasts three undergraduate colleges, seven graduate and professional schools, numerous research facilities, multiple hospitals, and Lullwater Preserve. Everyone enjoys a pedestrian-friendly environment with easy proximity to Atlanta.

Emory's liberal arts curriculum attracts talented faculty and students who push boundaries and lead with their curiosity across more than 80 majors and 60 minors.

Graduates from Emory are prepared to transition successfully on to graduate school or a career—ultimately, they go on to tackle some of the world's most difficult problems.

Enjoy exploring our beautiful campus!

31 LULLWATER PRESERVE
This 154-acre wildlife preserve sits right on Emory's Atlanta campus. The preserve's landscape features the beautiful Candler Lake, a 210-foot suspension bridge, acres of green space, and miles of walking and jogging trails. Motor vehicles are not permitted inside the preserve which maintains Lullwater's peaceful environment.

32 HAYGOOD-HOPKINS GATE
Marking the main entrance to the Atlanta campus, the gate, constructed in 1937, memorializes Emory's history before the university relocated to Atlanta. It's named after two Emory graduates, Atticus Greene Haygood and Isaac Stiles Hopkins, who later served as presidents of Emory University. Today, it is one of the campus's most iconic landmarks and a great location for photo opportunities.

28 PSYCHOLOGY AND INTER-DISCIPLINARY SCIENCES BUILDING

The Department of Psychology houses the Emory Child Studies Center, a neuroimaging center, and various research laboratories.

29 MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE CENTER (MSC)
MSC houses the departments of computer science, environmental sciences, mathematics, and physics. It also contains a planetarium, a telescope, office spaces, classrooms, laboratories, and a library.

30 HEALTH SCIENCES QUAD
Across the bridge over Eagle Row, commonly called the "biology bridge," is the Health Sciences Quad. The buildings in this area are home to classes and labs for biology, human health, and public health. This quad includes two of Emory University's schools, the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing and Rollins School of Public Health, as well as research buildings, a library, and classrooms.

58% of students who engage with Pre-Health Advising are admitted to medical schools compared to the national average of 40%.

Matheson Reading Room

Georgia law prohibiting private colleges from integrating by taking away their state tax exemption. When the state supreme court struck down the law in 1962, a better Emory—and a better state—became possible.

7 CALLAWAY MEMORIAL CENTER

Callaway provides office and classroom space for numerous majors. It houses the Writing Center, a free resource to all students, where both undergraduate and graduate tutors support writers of all levels, abilities, disciplines, and in any stage of the writing process.

8 CANDLER LIBRARY
The library is named for Asa Candler, founder of The Coca-Cola Company and one of Emory's earliest benefactors. The Matheson Reading Room, located on the 3rd floor of the Candler Library, is arguably one of the quietest places to study on campus. The room resembles a set from Harry Potter, with low-hanging, dim lights and long, dark wooden tables.

9 OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL AND SUMMER PROGRAMS (OISP)
OISP offers around 120 study abroad programs in over 40 countries. Students can spend a summer, semester, or a full academic year abroad, and about 40% of Emory seniors have an international educational experience by the time they graduate.

10 WOODRUFF LIBRARY
Named after Robert W. Woodruff, a former CEO of The Coca-Cola Company, the Atlanta campus's main library is home to print and electronic resources, classrooms, and study spaces.

1 OXFORD ROAD BUILDING (ORB)
The ORB is home to the Office of Undergraduate Admission, Barnes & Noble bookstore, where students can buy textbooks and Emory apparel, and one of the largest collegiate Starbucks in the U.S.

2 BOISFEUILLET JONES CENTER
B. Jones houses the Office of Financial Aid. Emory is need-blind for admitted domestic students. Therefore, a student's financial status does not drive our admission decisions. B. Jones also houses Pre-Health Advising, Pre-Law Advising, and the Career Center. The Career Center helps students find internships and jobs, create resumes and cover letters, and apply to graduate schools.

3 THE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
This building houses the Office of the Provost and other offices that oversee the operations of Emory University.

4 THE QUADRANGLE
"The Quad" is the original and historical part of the Atlanta campus. Students are often seen studying, laying in hammocks, meeting for classes, or playing Frisbee. Every May, 14,000 chairs are set up for Commencement to celebrate the graduating class.

5 MICHAEL C. CARLOS MUSEUM
The Carlos Museum is one of the Southeast's leading art museums and serves the community through its distinguished exhibition calendar. The museum's collection includes objects from ancient Egypt, Nubia, Near East, Greece, Rome, ancient Americas, Africa, and Asia, as well as works ranging from the Renaissance to the present.

6 HENRY L. BOWDEN HALL
Home to the Departments of History and Philosophy, this building is named for a former chair of the Board of Trustees. Henry Bowden led the fight to overturn a 100% run on recycled cooking oils, Emory's free Cliff Shuttles allow students to travel around campus, to local grocery stores and neighborhoods, Oxford College, and various locations around the city. On Saturdays, Emory Experience Shuttles allow undergraduates to explore places in Atlanta including Atlantic Station, Centennial Olympic Park, Virginia-Highland, High Museum of Art, Little Five Points, and the Atlanta Botanical Gardens.

11 THE STUART A. ROSE LIBRARY
 Located on the 9th and 10th floors of the Woodruff Library, the Rose Library houses Emory's special collections and historic artifacts. Some highlights of the collection include original letters that former president Barak Obama wrote during college, materials from the civil rights movement, and rare first edition books. The mostly-glass construction of the 10th floor allows visitors spectacular views of Atlanta's skyline.

12 SCHWARTZ CENTER FOR PERFORMING ARTS
 The Schwartz Center includes a world-class, 825-seat concert hall that hosts over 300 arts events each year that are open to the public. Inside, there's enough classroom and rehearsal spaces to support six departments and one integrated co-major in the Arts at Emory program. The arts curriculum is composed of seven different sections: Music, Dance and Movement Studies, Theater Studies, Art History, Creative Writing, Film and Media Studies, and Integrated Visual Arts.

13 GOIZUETA BUSINESS SCHOOL
 Commonly called the "B-school," the BBA program is housed here, and sophomores can apply for admission after completing their prerequisites. BBA students focus on one primary area of study: accounting; finance; information systems and operations management; marketing; or strategy and management consulting. Concentrations include: health innovation, arts management, environmental management, and film and media management.

99% of business students have at least one business internship before graduation.

14 NELL HODGSON WOODRUFF SCHOOL OF NURSING
 Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) students continue to the School of Nursing during their junior year once they've completed their prerequisites at Emory College or Oxford College. All nursing students participate in a combined 25,000 hours of Service Learning in underserved communities around the world.

81% of our students volunteer in Atlanta and across the globe.

15 EMORY UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL
 Located in the middle of campus, Emory Hospital allows students to explore academic interests outside of the classroom through volunteer, research, and shadowing opportunities. Emory students also have easy access to Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Veterans Affairs Hospital, Winship Cancer Institute, and Yerkes National Primate Research Center, all located within a mile of this campus.

16 COX HALL
 Cox Hall is a hub for campus life and student resources:

- 1st Floor: The Cox Hall food court is one dining option on campus, giving students more options for their Eagle Dollars.
- 2nd Floor: The Cox Computing Center provides students access to computers, printers, and a Student Tech Lab which houses cutting-edge technology like 3D printers. At EaglePrint, students can send files and print from their computers anywhere on campus.
- 3rd Floor: The Cox Hall Ballroom is a 7,200-square-foot space that hosts events on campus.

Farmers Market at Cox Hall Bridge

17 COX HALL BRIDGE
 Here, every Tuesday, Emory's Farmer's Market offers fresh, local produce from the Oxford Organic Farm, street-food from all cuisines, local honey, and handmade goods from local artisans.

18 ALUMNI MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY CENTER (AMUC)
 The AMUC is a centralized place for student organizations and support services. Students can work with student organizations, build community through campus clubs, and find support for their personal or professional goals. Along with student resource and club offices, the building houses meeting spaces, the Harland Cinema, and the Mary Gray Munroe Theater.

19 EMORY STUDENT CENTER (ESC)
 The ESC, completed in May 2019, is located in the heart of campus. In compliance with Emory's sustainability initiative, it's been constructed using the latest technology in sustainable building construction. Inside includes a ballroom space, student lounge spaces, private event spaces, meeting rooms, and the The Dobbs Common Table dining hall. Many of the campus life offices are also located here: Student Involvement, Leadership, and Transitions; Center for Civic and Community Engagement; Center for Women; Office of LGBT Life; Racial and Cultural Engagement; and Social Justice Education.

20 FIRST-YEAR RESIDENCE HALLS
 There are eight first-year residence halls with a student staff to resident ratio of 1:10. First- and second-year students are required to live on campus and guaranteed a space in on-campus housing. Resident Advisors and Sophomore Advisors staff each building to help foster a close-knit community and help first-year students acclimate to campus life. Each building includes study lounges, kitchens, and laundry rooms.

21 MCDONOUGH FIELD
 This space is designated for recreational use and campus-wide events, including Relay for Life, the Taste of Emory, and intramural practices. Large campus concerts during Homecoming and Dooley's Week are also held here. Recent performers include J. Cole, Kendrick Lamar, One Republic, the Chainsmokers, Matt & Kim, AJR, and Post Malone.

22 EAGLE ROW
 The Greek letter organizations mainly reside along Eagle Row. Approximately 30% of Emory students participate in Greek Life. Recruitment is deferred until the second semester of a student's first year, giving them time to familiarize themselves with college and campus life before deciding if they wish to become involved in Greek Life.

23 WOODRUFF P.E. CENTER
 The WoodPEC (pronounced "wood peck") includes basketball, tennis, squash and racquetball courts, three dance and fitness studios, a theater, an indoor track, rock-climbing walls, an Olympic-size swimming pool, weight machines, and free weights. A soccer field, additional track, and tennis courts are located outside of the building.

As part of the General Education Requirements, Play 4 Life provides one credit hour of cutting-edge physical fitness and wellness courses. The goal is to build health and wellness through physical activity for all students, regardless of prior experience or fitness level. Group fitness classes for students include yoga, zumba, cycling, tae kwon do, hip hop fuego, barre, Bollywood dance, and High Intensity Interval Training.

80% of Emory students participate in varsity, club, or intramural sports. Emory's varsity athletes compete within 19 NCAA Division III varsity teams.

24 ASBURY CIRCLE
 Every Wednesday, the Emory community gathers in Asbury Circle for Wonderful Wednesdays where a variety of our 445 student organizations set up tables around the circle's perimeter for events, games, and food.

25 CANNON CHAPEL
 Cannon Chapel holds weekly interdenominational services, and contains worship, meeting, and classroom space for the more than 30 student religious groups on campus.

26 WHITE HALL
 White Hall is home to Emory's auditorium-style lecture halls. Class sizes range from a one-on-one independent study to a lecture course with over 100 students, but the median number of students in an Emory class is around 25. Large lecture classes usually divide into smaller discussion groups and labs.

55% of Emory students participate in research with a faculty member. Emory's Undergraduate Research Program (URP) and Research Partners Program (RPP) promote research projects through grants, faculty-student research partnerships, research stipends, and conference travel awards. Research at Emory is open to students in all disciplines and stresses hands-on, applied, and experiential learning.

27 ATWOOD CHEMISTRY CENTER
 Atwood was designed to blur the lines between classroom learning and hands-on laboratory experience in order to change how the world views science education. Laboratories with glass windows make science more transparent and inclusive. The "Science Commons" atrium is a popular place for students of all majors to study in a social and collaborative environment.
