

EMORY

At Emory, we believe in those with the ambition to achieve, the passion to learn, and the optimism to see the possibilities ahead. If you decide to join us, you will have everything you need to succeed: the unwavering support of friends, fellows, and Fulbrights. The freedom to collaborate and hatch wild ideas. Plus, every lab, stage, and court on which to learn, act, or take the lead.

Come discover a shared sense of community, purpose, and opportunity that's impossible to deny and invigorating to embrace. It's a distinctive energy that we share with Atlanta—a city where medical milestones are made, Fortune 500s are built, and creative visions are realized.

And once you're here, you'll become part of it all.

Serve the world &

lead it too.

Two schools.

Emory is renowned for classroom rigor and faculty excellence. Our academics shape critical thinkers and compassionate achievers who are prepared to learn and lead. Here, you'll broaden your understanding of the world, collaborate across disciplines, and grow in ways that prepare you for the future. And it all starts with applying to our undergraduate colleges.

Two places to start and three paths to choose from.

YEAR ONE AND YEAR TWO

Foundational classes are completed at either Emory College in Atlanta or Oxford College in Oxford, Georgia.

5,727 UNDERGRADS

A rigorous liberal arts education at the center of a thriving research university. Located in Atlanta's historic Druid Hills neighborhood, this is a traditional four-year education where undergraduates and graduate students alike learn in a diverse and inspiring campus setting.

973 UNDERGRADS

A rigorous two-year liberal arts experience at the heart of a serene, close-knit college. Just 38 miles from Atlanta, Oxford College is located on Emory's original campus in Oxford, Georgia, outside the charming town of Covington. After their first two years, Oxford students join their third- and fourth-year classmates on the Atlanta campus to complete their undergraduate education.

Emory College^{ATL}

Solve for x and why at Emory College of Arts and Sciences—an institution in motion since 1836. It’s where critical thinking and collaboration drive new ideas. Here, students don’t compete but push one another to think creatively, work cooperatively, and ensure each other’s success—all amid the energy and pace of seven graduate and professional schools, living and studying alongside business and nursing undergraduates.

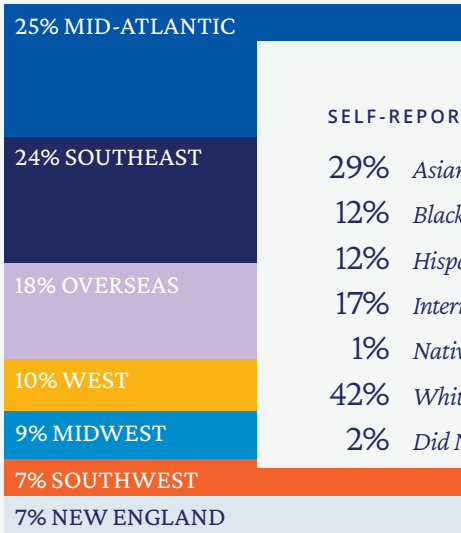

Begin your journey at one of the world’s top research universities, and you’ll learn to think critically, weigh conflicting evidence, and ask questions that change views.

Meet your fellow students.

New perspectives lead to new ideas. And true to this mindset, it’s no wonder that Emory College is home to students from around the country and the world.

Welcome to Atlanta, a city that's constantly reinventing itself in business, tech, and culture, offering endless opportunities for growth and self-expression.

This is where the climate is perfect for exploring year-round, where you can walk or bike the 22-mile Beltline to experience neighborhoods lined with public art, restaurants, and cafes. Between pro sports, concerts, and festivals, there is always something new to experience.

And because a modern education is rooted in real-world experiences, you'll also find countless ways to intern and volunteer in the city's hundreds of corporate and nonprofit organizations.

The backdrop for your life.

Emory's Atlanta and Oxford campuses are full of life—in all four seasons of the year. Not only do the campuses serve as a backdrop for rich traditions like the Gate Crossing and Coke Toast, but they're also the backdrops of your favorite movies and TV shows. Atlanta is a leading hub of Hollywood productions, and Emory is very much part of it. Students sometimes see stars of these productions on campus and even serve as extras on set.

OFFER RESEARCH OPPORTUNITIES

At Emory, faculty members do more than teach. They inspire the future. They are distinguished scientists, researchers, authors, and public servants who've been awarded the Pulitzer and Nobel Peace Prizes. And they bring all of that commitment and experience to the classroom—making a big difference in your education.

Our faculty will challenge you to broaden your understanding of the world, collaborate across disciplines, and grow in ways that prepare you for the future. This is more than being ready for the job market. It's gaining the knowledge and skills for a future that needs your leadership. This is the advantage of a personal and proactive liberal arts education at Emory.

SPECIALIZED ADVISING

If you're weighing options for professional programs in the future, we offer specialized advising to help you prepare.

EXPERT FACULTY

Emory faculty members have written nearly 2,000 books over the past 20 years, and 94% have the highest degree in their fields. And they're accessible—more than half of Emory students assist faculty with research across the sciences, arts, and humanities.

RESEARCH WITH REAL IMPACT

As one of the world's leading research universities with more than $1B in annual funding, students can participate in groundbreaking research programs that drive discovery, forge partnerships, and help save lives.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCES

Ask any student who's experienced it: Living and learning in another country can be transformational. Choose from 100+ study abroad programs in 40+ countries across six continents. Broaden your horizon for a summer, a semester, or longer.

THRIVE IN ACADEMICS AND LIFE

Our Student Flourishing initiative is a distinctly Emory experience. It's a uniquely purposeful path to help you find not only academic and professional success but a fulfilling and meaningful life. Student Flourishing integrates four dimensions of your college journey:

Academic Experience

Professional Pathways

Purpose and Meaning

Community and Well-Being

CHEERS!

THE COKE TOAST

Every fall, first-year students gather on the Quad to meet Emory's president and raise a bottle to academic success. It's a long-standing move-in-day tradition born from Emory's 150-year history with The Coca-Cola Company. In 1982, the tradition broke the Guinness World Record for the largest nonalcoholic toast in Guinness history.

Potential In. Possibilities

Out.

As a research institution, we focus on results. We pay close attention to our graduates and what they accomplish after graduation. We're happy to report that they do very well—and so will you.

A major advantage for Emory students: the Pathways Center, a resource for defining your next steps, setting career goals, and helping you achieve them. Take advantage of holistic career guidance and professional development, receive up to $5,000 to help pay for internship experiences, and visit Emory alumni where they work. We call these visits Career Treks, and they're a unique way to connect with industry leaders.

In addition to the Pathways Center, both the Goizueta Business School and the Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing provide comprehensive guidance, training, and career support for students, along with exclusive networking opportunities with alumni.

With 3,000+ internship opportunities in Atlanta alone, chances are you'll leave campus with real work experience. This experience adds up to an education that paves a clear path forward, whether it's landing a job or entering graduate school.
